

International Olympic Committee confirms London is ready to welcome the world

30 Mar 2012

The International Olympic Committee's (IOC's) Coordination Commission today concluded its tenth and final visit to London with the message that the 2012 Host City is ready to welcome the world's best athletes and Olympic and Paralympic fans this summer.

LOCOG Chair Seb Coe with IOC Chairman Denis Oswald at the Coordination Commission closing press conference.

Chairman of the IOC's Coordination Commission Denis Oswald said: 'With only 119 days to go until the Games begin, London is ready to welcome the world this summer.'

'London presented us with a strong vision in Singapore seven years ago and, while many details will need to be finalised between now and 27 July, they are well on track to deliver an outstanding event.'

London 2012 medals unveiled at one-year countdown event

The Princess Royal has unveiled the London 2012 gold medals as the one-year countdown to the Olympics began.

The medals depict the Greek goddess of victory, Nike, stepping out of the depiction of the Panathenaic to arrive in the host city.

Thousands gathered in Trafalgar Square where David Cameron promised London's would be the "greatest games".

Meanwhile, diver Tom Daley performed the first official dive at the Aquatics Centre, the latest venue completed.
